THE WORLD OF INTERIORS

'These majestic animals must remain to remind us of the magic inherent in reality.' So says Gary Hume, one of the artists designing limited-edition rugs for TOMORROW'S TIGERS, a project in support of the T×2 goal to double wild numbers of the big cats by 2022. Pieces by the likes of Bernard Frize and Rose Wylie, in collaboration with Christopher Farr, are inspired by traditional Tibetan tiger rugs, a number of which will also be on show at Sotheby's 29 JANUARY-4 FEBRUARY. Tiger rugs were created to protect praying monks; help protect the tigers so they still burn bright. Details: 020 7293 5000; wwf.org.uk.
